

QS40 Air

Less is more sustainable. Material-saving design.

Product characteristics

With the QS40 Air, elegance meets sustainability. Thanks to the material-saving honeycomb structure of its design, QS40 Air requires 60% less plastic. The international recycling symbol is discreetly printed on every QS40 Air.

Materials

The casings of QS 40 Air are made of high-quality recyclable ABS plastic, 50% of which is recycled directly on-site from plastic waste generated in our manufacturing processes. In accordance with EU sustainable design guidelines, on-site recycling keeps the supply chain short for recycled materials and eliminates the need for long-distance transport as well as the associated social and ecological costs.

Refill

All writing instruments come standard with Floating Ball® Lead Free refills, featuring an innovative ink paste that contains no substances classified by REACH as "Substances of Very High Concern" (SVHC) as per last ECHA update. The refills are in compliance with standard ISO 12757-1 and 2, documentary proof. They glide easily over the paper, offering constantly high writing comfort and quality over their entire life. The jumbo ballpoint pen refill offers a writing performance of up to 5'000 metres. Empty refills can be replaced with any Parker-style ballpoint refill (G2) to extend indefinitely the life of the pen.

Recycling

All external as well as all metal parts of the QS 40 Air are fully recyclable. Internal mechanical components as well as the ink refill, should be disposed of according to local regulations.

Company

Prodir is a brand of Pagani Pens SA, a global leader in the development and manufacture of promotional writing instruments, combining high-quality, innovative materials, internationally award-winning design, and the ambition to achieve the highest standards of sustainability. The writing instruments are manufactured entirely and exclusively in Switzerland. 100% of the electrical energy used for their production is generated by climate-friendly Swiss hydropower plants.

> Product page online